

Ting Meng Hong

LPSS

When Meng Hong started on her photography journey, she initially used a point and shoot camera to shoot flowers and travel photos. Back then, she bought her first Nikon DSLR in 2011 and took pictures mostly using auto mode.

Only after attending the Digital Basic Photography course from The Photographic Society of Singapore (PSS) did she start to truly learn the techniques of taking good photographs.

In 2014, she attained her PSS Licentiate (LPSS), joining PSS as a life member from that year.

Meng Hong likes to take photos of flowers, streets and landscapes. Recently, she has also developed an interest in black and white photography.

Her photos of Singapore were exhibited in PSS, Kuala Lumpur Photography Festival and Culture Exchange Exhibition in Japan. She is also proud to have showcased her photos in The Magic of Black & White Exhibition in 2023.